Praise the Lord and Good Morning,

I was thinking about promotion and how we, as the Lord's servants, can protest a promotion. Isn't it interesting how some people don't want to get promoted? They look at the requirements and just don't want to go the distance. Or they feel they aren't worthy, don't have the skill set, don't have the background, etc. But again, when God is promoting He wants a willing heart. Moses came to mind. After the massive sacrifice that his mother and father made by keeping him hidden three months from being killed. They risked their lives to keep him alive. His mother then sending him down the river where God had it set for Pharaoh's daughter to find him and raise him. After all of that, Moses decides for God that being promoted to "deliverer" is too much. That somehow God missed it. Didn't the Lord know that Moses had "issues?" But again, that is the beauty of God promoting you. He knows what strengths and weaknesses you have. God hasn't just randomly selected you to be promoted to your place right now....stop fighting God's promotions in your life. He knows what He's doing. Like I said a few days ago, your script is the right one. You mean to tell me you know better than God what you should be promoted too? 6 For promotion cometh neither from the east, nor from the west, nor from the south. 7 But God is the judge: he putteth down one, and setteth up another.
