Praise the Lord and Good Afternoon,

We stayed at a relative's home in Dayton, Ohio during Thanksgiving weekend. The family member lives out in the country (which is not something I'd consider doing....I like the suburbs). But I must admit I had a great time there. I saw some amazing sunsets, had a chance to watch 10 puppies and a cat run across open land, and eat some excellent coconut cream pie (got the recipe for that one!!).

There was one room in the house where I ventured to often to simply enjoy the view. One time I went in and looked out the window and noticed that my husband's keys were dangling from the trunk lock. He wasn't even aware they were lost. I left the room and told him where his keys were.

I thought about how God knew where my husband had left his keys. I thought about how He knew I'd be gazing out the window without even a thought about car keys. But the Lord had an answer ready for me.

This came back to mind earlier this morning as I've been pondering over some situations in my life. If the Lord can provide an answer about keys even before we were cognizant that they were even lost, what more what I'm pouring out to Him about? He does care, even when I don't know what to make of the situation, He's provided an answer....I might not see it yet, but somewhere there's an answer. I'm so grateful the Lord has the answer for all situations, be they as small as lost keys or those that feel larger than life!

28 And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose. (Romans 8:28 KJV)
